According to the revised publication policy for the academic journals of the Korean Chemical Society, the waiver of publication charges for foreign authors will be terminated from March 1, 2014. All the authors of papers issued from March, 2014 are expected to pay for the publication cost. When your paper is decided to be published, we will request you to pay for the page charges. Publication of your paper will be postponed until the charges are fully paid. Your comprehension will be highly appreciated.

A per-page charge will be levied to each published paper. However, the waiver policy for those who cannot cover their charges due to no funding support will be maintained when all of the following conditions are met:

1. None of the authors including co-authors have any funding sources for the submitted paper to the Bulletin of the Korean Chemical Society or the Journal of the Korean Chemical Society.
2. None of the authors are affiliated with any profit organizations or industries.
3. No funding source is listed in the "acknowledgement" section of the submitted paper.

If the waiver application is approved, the following statement will be added to the "acknowledgement" section of the paper:

"Publication cost of this article was supported by the Korean Chemical Society."

All of the authors are expected to submit the attached form containing their preferred payment method. If you want to apply for the waiver, please mark at the appropriate place in the form below.
